

A Port Macquarie & Hastings Clinical Society Event

Working Together to Improve Interdisciplinary Communication

Research suggests that good interdisciplinary communication leads to improved patient outcomes – high levels of patient and family satisfaction, symptom control, reductions in length of stay and hospital costs.

Effective communication among staff leads to productive teamwork and promotes continuity and clarity within the patient care team. Good communication encourages collaboration, fosters teamwork, and helps prevent errors.

What to expect

We'll kick off the evening with some dinner and networking before diving into a series of case presentations. Hear from local health professionals and a community member and discover the difference that good communication can make in a person's health care journey. Unpack the use of My Health Record and management plans as a communication tool and learn how they can improve your business model. The evening will end with a panel discussion on ways to improve your communication to achieve better health outcomes for patients and clients.

Learning outcomes

- Identify ways to inform and influence a patient's adoption of health care information and behaviours
- Get to know what communication tools are used by your Port Macquarie colleagues
- Gain practical written communication tips for purpose-driven and effective documentation
- Improve your understanding of electronic health information and My Health Record

Who should attend?

GPs and their registrars, hospital clinical staff, general practice and hospital administration staff, allied health professionals, and anybody seeking to improve their communication with health care providers and clients.

Thursday 6 May 2021

6.00–8.00pm

Rydges, Port Macquarie

FACILITATED BY

Dr Andy Williams, General Practitioner

Leanne Bryant, Workforce Manager,
Healthy North Coast and Registered Nurse

SPEAKERS

Nathan Lynch, Physiotherapist

Barry Spencer, Physiotherapist

Mehrnoosh Alipanahi, Physiotherapist

PLUS A PANEL OF LOCAL HEALTH PROFESSIONALS

Register Now

hnc.org.au/pmcs-interdisciplinary-communication

CPD POINTS

Certificates of attendance will be provided, and we encourage you to self-submit for CPD/PDP.

ENQUIRIES

02 6618 5445
education@hnc.org.au