

A Coffs Harbour & Bellingen Clinical Society event

Ask your health colleagues about eating disorders

Right now, more than one million Australians are experiencing an eating disorder, and less than a quarter are getting treatment or support. At this CPD Bites event, you'll be able to ask a paediatrician and other health professionals, your burning questions and learn about the physical, psychological, nutritional and functional aspects of managing eating disorders.

What to expect

CPD Bites are an opportunity to meet with local health colleagues, have a bite to eat, and learn bite-sized CPD. Come along to hear the myths around eating disorders debunked and discuss a range of practical resources to help you support your patients.

Learn how to develop an eating disorder management plan, explore HealthPathways and other local resources, and work through case scenarios. Presentations will include best practice evidence, indicators for medical admission and the Mental Health Act.

Learning outcomes

- Recognise eating disorders in primary health care.
- Increase confidence to initiate an eating disorder management plan.
- Describe medical indicators for admission and in-patient treatment.
- Identify local referral pathways and resources for the management eating disorders in the Coffs Harbour and Bellingen region.

Who should attend?
